Absolute freedom of the press to discuss public questions is a foundation stone of American Liberty.

—HERBERT C. HOOVER

VOLUME 62, NUMBER 42

VIEWS OF THE NEWS

By LEONARD F. JAMES

The conquest of China by the communist must be regarded as a major blow to American foreign policy and to democratic purposes. Historically the success of Mao Tse-tung in China is the greatest communist victory since the Russian revolution. And yet we were not in a position to foresee success against Russia in China, nor were conditions as favorable to us there as they were in Europe. And faced two years ago with undertaking support of China or Western Europe, we chose the latter. There were several good reasons for assisting Europe first and wholeheartedly.

Europe More Important Than China

In Europe we are dealing with the most highly-organized area in the world, with people who are technologically advanced, with skills that we'd rather have working for us than against us. The consequences of Russian domination of Europe would be no less disastrous than the former threat brought close to home by Nazi Germany. Russia would have an incredible potential of know-how and skills under her control, she would have vast shipyards, fac-

One Case of Polio Reported Here

A case of poliomyelitis was reported to the local health authorities last week.

The case was not the result of contact in Andover, health officials reported. The 6-year-old Robert Bliss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bliss of Highland Ave., had been away on a vacation, part of which was spent in Massachusetts and part in Rhode Island, and brought home with him.

A physician was called and ordered the young victim's immediate removal to the Children's hospital in Boston.

This is the first case reported here since two years ago, at which time it was learned that contact had been made outside the town. The last report of a case developed from contact made here was some eight or ten years ago, according to health officials.

The result of the present case does not mean that health authorities will close local ponds or order any restrictions. Water in the local ponds, particularly Pump's pond where the town maintains a municipal bathing beach, is checked regularly by state health authorities. Only last week the local board received a report of an analysis of the water at Pump's pond showing that it was fit for bathing purposes.

Dr. Roy F. Feemster, state director of the division of communicable diseases, said of the 183 polio cases reported in Massachusetts: "The prevalence still seems to be concentrated in the metropolitan area."

May Restrict Water Sprinkling

The board of public works, which has been closely following the drought on the water system during the extensive dry spell, will determine on its survey in the next 24 hours whether or not to make restrictions on water sprinkling.

At its meeting last night the board noted that the water at Haggis pond was down 41 inches below normal and had gone down five inches in the last eight days. The intake pipe is still 12 feet below the surface.

However, the discharge pump at the Bancroft road reservoir which pumps from the low service reservoir into the high service system. This unit has to keep up the pressure in the high service system, on which there has been an extra heavy drain in the past several weeks because of sprink-

NEW TRIAL JUSTICE TO SIT HERE

Complying with a request of Atty. Richard K. Gordon, recently appointed trial justice of Andover, the selectmen Monday night voted to provide accommodations in the town house where local court cases may be heard.

The selectmen set aside the room on the second floor recently vacated by the AMVETS and have requested the county commissioners for funds to provide sufficient furniture and equipment for the new court room.

It has been several years since court cases were heard in Andover. All cases are now tried in the district court at Lawrence. The former court room in the town house is now occupied by the welfare department.

The trial justice will have jurisdiction only in minor court cases and can impose fines up to $25. The local court will be without a probation officer or clerk. Arraignment of local cases here will eliminate some of the trips police have to make with their prisoners to Lawrence.

Atty. Gordon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gordon and resides on Lowell st. He was nominated for his present post by Gov. Dever early in May. During World War II he served in the air corps and was honorably discharged with the rank of lieutenant.

Advise Veterans About Refunds

So many inquiries have been received at the office of the veterans' service in the town house about the coming refund on National Service life insurance that Francis P. Markey, veterans' affairs agent, wishes to give veterans the latest information received by him on the subject.

No veteran can apply before August 29. Any application received before this date will be thrown away.

Applications will be available at the office of veterans' service in the town house, the post office, and headquarters of all local veteran organizations.

The first refund checks may be expected after Jan. 1, 1950 and it will take four or five months to get checks to all veterans of World War II.

The veterans' administration warns veterans not to write about their checks. If a veteran writes, his card will be removed from the process list and his check will be much slower in arriving.

Further details will be announced when application blanks arrive, which will be about Aug. 29.

Programs of Racing And Novelty Events For Various Age Groups

The annual field days with their programs of races and novelty events for each age group will feature the activities at the Shaw-sheen, Central and Ballardvale playgrounds Friday. Indian Ridge will stage its field day Monday, Aug. 15.

Other special events planned to highlight the season now drawing to a close are the carnival dance to be held at the Andover Guild Tuesday, Aug. 16, and the Ballardvale carnival to be held on the street in front of the Community building the evening of Thursday, Aug. 18.

A large committee of 'Vale residents has been formed to complete arrangements for this event and it is expected that the program will be an outstanding one.

All the playgrounds will close Aug. 19. At that time all of the equipment will be taken down and stored for future use and records of the various play centers will be completed.

Numerous events were held at the different playgrounds last Friday. Boxing matches predominated and drew many interested spectators who saw the young hopefuls swinging at each other with 14-ounce gloves. One or two teeth were reported missing but otherwise contestants finished up with big smiles on their faces.

A large number of spectators enjoyed the boxing matches last Friday at the Central playground. George Snyder was referee of the bouts while Bill Dobbie, George Three hearings will be held by the board of appeals Wednesday evening, Aug. 24.

At 7:15 p.m. the board will hear the petition of Mrs. Hilda Nartiff, co-owner of a two-family, duplex house at 94 Maple ave., who seeks to renovate one side to make two 3-room apartments.

Jewett heirs for permission to subdivide property on the southeast corner of High st. and Walnut ave. resulting in lot areas of less than 8500 feet and frontage of less than 75 feet, side yards less than 15 feet and front and rear yards of less than 30 feet. Houses have been on these lots for about 40 years.

At 7:45 p.m. Willis P. Chick of Foster's pond will be heard on a petition to store lumber for commercial purposes on his property on Rattlesnake Hill road, approximately 1200 feet from the junction of County road.

Social Security Office To Move

After twelve years, the social security office, bureau of old-age and survivors' insurance, which has been located in the post office building, Lawrence, is moving to larger quarters.

Effective Monday, Aug. 15, the office will be located at 202 Broadway in the Eagles' hall on the second floor, only two blocks from its present location. The telephone number remains the same, 24732. For several years the present quarters have been too small but due to the war it was not possible to move.

Since the opening of the office Oct. 27, 1937 by the present manager, Howard L. Leighton, there have been processed through the Lawrence office, which services Andover, Boxford, Georgetown, Lawrence, Methuen, North Andover and Rowley, a total of 11,500 claims for monthly benefits and lump-sum death payments.

Monthly benefits are now being paid to persons in this area in an amount between $75.00 and $100.00 each month, representing retired workers, aged wives, widows, parents and children.

The new quarters at 202 Broadway are large enough to allow for expansion for many years to come and will allow for better service.

Complete Hot Top Work On Main St.

Work of resurfacing Main street was completed Tuesday when the Warren Brothers Roads company put on the last of the 1900 tons of hot top mix.

The work was started Monday, Aug. 1 and completed in eight working days. Two courses were laid, a binder and a top from the railroad bridge up through the square to the post office.

During the process of the work the space immediately in front of the town house, between the sidewalk and the town house steps, were resurfaced which will allow markings in this area to coincide with the four parking meters there.

"The Glass Menagerie" by Tennessee Williams, author of "A Street Car Named Desire", is currently attracting capacity audiences to the Windham Playhouse near Cobbetts pond.

Next week, Aug. 16 to 20, a new adaption of Dumas' immortal romance by John McKinney, "Camille," is to be featured. The story is based on the life of a famous courtesan of that period. TOOTH DECAY CHECKED BY CHLOROPHYLL'S USE Chlorophyll, the green substance in plants which translates the sun's energy into food, was nominated last fortnight for a humbler role: checking tooth decay, according to Pathfinder news magazine.

Prof. Gustav Rapp of Loyola School of Dentistry in Chicago told how he had tested chlorophyll's effect on lactobacillus acidophilus, the chief bacteria associated with tooth decay, found that over a 26-week period it was practically eliminated. The compound may also be effective against other microscopic organisms which attack teeth.

Already pastes containing chlorophyll are being distributed—but only through selected dentists who are cooperating with Prof. Rapp on a two-year test of its effectiveness.

Fingerprints as a means of identification were used from the earliest days of the Orient, when rulers used their thumbprints as an official signature.

WEST NEWBURY THEATRE

"All My Sons," Arthur Miller's great prize-winning predecessor to "Death of a Salesman," will open at the West Newbury Summer theatre, at 8:40 P.M. to run through the week of Aug. 15. The current presentation, Moss Hart's comedy of back-stage errors, "Light Up the Sky" will continue its laugh-winning ways through Saturday evening, with Maurice Shrog and Nondas Metcalfe as the Broadway couple who resemble Mr. and Mrs. Billy Rose.

More exciting even than "Home of the Brave," "All My Sons" is the play that out-distanced Eugene O'Neill's "The Iceman Cometh," as winner of the Critics' Circle award, and hurtled Arthur Miller to the forefront as the most talented young playwright since the early days of Odets, Sherwood, and Maxwell Anderson. "All My Sons," like "Death of a Salesman," was originally directed by Ella Kazan of "Sundown Beach," "Gentleman's Agreement," and "A Streetcar Named Desire."

Although "All My Sons" boldly faces the fundamental problem of post-war America today, the setting is deceptively simple. The scene could be Bradford or Andover or High street, Newburyport; the central character, the rotund business-man, Joe Keller, might be the president of an Amesbury savings bank or of a Haverhill shoe-factory. There is a gentle and troubled mother, a bitter neighbor, a pair of young lovers with a shadow over their love. Yet out of these, author Miller has woven the most exciting and suspenseful play of America's post-war theatre, a play that left

Weinrich To Give Methuen Concerts

The Organ Institute's summer concerts will be continued this week with two recitals by Carl Weinrich in the Methuen Memorial music hall. At 8:30 P.M. Friday, Aug. 12, his program will include excerpts from the classical literature for the organ by Bruhns, Buxtehude, Sweelinck, and Bach. The contemporary composers, Hindemith and Messiaen, will be represented, the former by his Third Sonata and the latter by two numbers from his Suite, "The Ascension." A musical novelty by Mozart, and Andante in F, composed for a mechanical clock, will complete the program.

At 8:30 P.M. Saturday, Aug. 13, Mr. Weinrich will appear as soloist with the Organ Institute orchestra, conducted by Arthur Howes. The concerted works will be Handel's Fourth Concerto in F major and the Concerto in G minor for organ and string by Poulenc. The orchestra will play the Capriol Suite, by Peter Warlock; and Mr. Weinrich's solos will include compositions of Buxtehude and Bach, and Nine Preludes by Milhaud.

Lincoln's first inaugural address was rushed by Pony Express from St. Joseph, Mo., to the Pacific coast in the fastest trip ever made by the express—seven days and 17 hours.

EDITORIAL THOUGHTS

REPEAL WARTIME EXCISE TAXES

Repeal of the wartime excise taxes has been urged as a measure that would stimulate business and employment.

Taxes now collected on the sale of furs, jewelry, luggage, cosmetics, transportation and other commodities were measures intended not only to raise money but to curtail the use of such materials and services needed to win the war. Many look upon their continued imposition as one of the big factors holding back certain retail buying.

Repeal has been held up largely because government fiscal agents fear the loss of revenue.

In the meantime, furs, jewelry, transportation and the like are carrying a business-depressing load of high wartime taxes. While many government officials, businessmen and the public recognize the desirability of repealing them, the present administration, with its eyes focused upon the loss of revenue involved, wants them to remain unchanged.

As a stimulation to business and employment repeal of these wartime levies would contribute in a large measure to a revival in these industries. The immediate loss to the government is estimated at $1 1/2 billion, but it would eventually result in higher federal income taxes from corporations and individuals which would partly offset this loss of revenue.

It is a matter to which congress should give earnest consideration at this time for its effect upon business.

18-YEAR-OLDS MUST REGISTER

Uncle Sam is looking for quite a number of his nephews who have become 18 years old during the past several months, but who have forgotten to register with their local draft boards.

Selective service officials realize that because there are no inductions into the armed services at this time many do not understand that the obligation to register still must be fulfilled. The law requires that it be done within five days of the 18th birthday. Failure to register makes a delinquent liable to heavy penalties.

There are about a dozen young men of Andover who are remiss in this matter. They are being contacted for the purpose of having them comply with the law. This area is served by Local Board 8, located at 477 Essex street, Lawrence, with Clinton H. Stevens of Andover as office manager.

It was learned that there occasionally delinquents will drift in from three to five months late and when questioned offer the excuse that they forgot about the obligation. The practice with tardy registrants in the past was to make them subject to immediate draft, but none are being sent away at present because of the high number of enlistments.

School records in Andover and in other communities have been consulted and the names of young men who should report have been secured. These are being contacted by mail so that they may attend to their obligations without further delay. Officials in charge are hopeful that no other steps will be necessary.

It would be unfair to say that young fellows are wilfully neglecting their duty to register. Many are forgetful, so it would seem that it is up to parents, who keep such "ominous" dates alive in their minds where their loved ones are concerned, to drop junior a little hint in this direction along with his presents on his 18th birthday.

HOW ABOUT THE OWNERS?

In recent years a great deal has been said in print and over the air about the welfare of workers. Most of the time it has sounded as if there were a lot of workers and not very many owners.

The 1948 annual report of a representative oil company certainly shows a different picture. Last year it employed 6,310 men and women. At the same time it had 33,157 stockholders, or five stockholders for every employee.

America is developing mass ownership, just as it developed mass production and mass distribution. Millions of thrifty people have saved their money and invested it to make American business grow and so create more jobs.

DRIVING ONE HAND

The latest announcement from the registrar of motor vehicles that enforcement officers will stop motorists who drive with only one hand on the wheel is good news to most autoists.

Many drivers are all too frequently annoyed and sometimes confused trying to understand the intent of the operator of the car ahead dangling one hand out the window. It may mean that he is going to stop, it may mean he is going to turn, or it may mean nothing at all.

With nearly a million cars registered in Massachusetts and thousands of out-of-state vacationists going to and fro on our already overcrowded highways, safety demands complete application and attention to driving. "This requires the use of both hands," says Registrar King, who, noting the number of serious accidents that have been the result of this unsafe habit, has instructed his inspectors to report all violators to him for disciplinary action.

The lad who drives with one arm about the date snuggled up to him, and the fellow who drives with elbow out the window and one hand on the roof of his car, are seen much too often in traffic.

Registrar King says this hazardous practice of driving with but one hand must be stopped and rightly observes that there is no room on our crowded highways for show-offs.

Views of The News

tories and slave labor to be used for her ends. A Russia controlling the eastern shores of the Atlantic would be a constant threat to United States security, even existence. The peoples of Western Europe do not sympathize with communist doctrines, and there can be no proper comparison between the physical condition of Western Europe, despite the scars of the recent war, and the physical and mental conditions of an illiterate and under-fed China.

Moderate Parties in Europe
In Europe there are large middle-of-the-road political parties which, although they may seem radical in comparison with our own politics, have no sympathy with the extremes of communism. They well understand that there can be no half-way with communism, that there can be no such thing as a truly local Communist party, Tito to the apparent contrary at the moment. They understand the real purpose behind the local national parties which recently declared their purpose of inviting an invading Russian army as "liberators," should there be conflict between Russia and the West.

Europe Works as a Partner

When we undertook to throw our weight into the European issue we were accused of further dividing the world by annoying Russia, and thus intensifying the cold war. Such an argument is patently unrealistic. To have stood aside from Europe would have meant the irrevocable loss to us of our allies on the continent. Had we turned to China instead, would our position there have been much different from what it now is? The Europeans not only could, but wanted to help themselves. Our support gave them both physical and moral encouragement. Positive participation in China might well have been a very much one-way affair; it certainly would have meant men as well as munitions. Our European policy has so far cost no lives except through accident. And it is to be questioned whether the Kremlin regards our European support with any degree of pleasure.

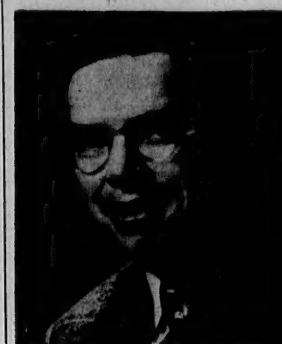

Is China a Political Mill-Stone?

And even had we been prepared to go all out in China, what kind of material had we to work with. In theory Chiang-Kai-Shek should be supported because he is anti-communist. In actual fact, much of his position is illusory. He might call his government a Nationalist one, or even the Central government of China, but it was in fact corrupt, self-seeking for selfish ends, incapable of checking communism physically or even morally by a program attractive to the Chinese masses, if such a program could have been spread throughout the country and understood by its people. Chiang's government reflected on a large scale the corruption and faults of petty warlords. Between this party and the Communists there stands no effective middle-of-the-road group capable of winning the people by real hopes for the future. There can be no comparison between the peoples and the attitudes of Western Europe and those of China.

Where do we go from here on a China policy. Can we wean Mao from the Soviet party line. Should we simply hope that Mao has taken on a task which will prove too large for him. It is questionable that we should depend upon either alternative. However, Mao is doubtless enough of a realist to weigh the advantages of proffered friendship with the United States and Russia. Hence we should not cease in our attempts to localize the revolution in China.

Can China Benefit From Russia?
China is technologically illiterate. It cannot become a serious threat as a great power for some time to come. And it appears that Russia can offer China very little in the way of material aid for several years. The protests of Russia against the Allied counter-blockade on finished products to Eastern Europe reveals one weakness in her economy. Not only is Moscow endeavoring to develop her own domestic economy and raise

FRANCIS T. KELLY

Largely due to the advertising technique of Francis T. Kelly, the already famous Rockport market has added prestige and importance in the field of retail independent grocery stores.

Writing simply and directly Mr. Kelly, part owner of the Rockport market, has established in the advertising columns of The TOWNSMAN a style so unique that national trade magazines have devoted considerable space to it, and congratulated Mr. Kelly in his effort to preserve the traditions of the small, independent grocer.

The magazine was quite right about Mr. Kelly's interest in the independent grocers and their problems for he has served on the Greater Lawrence Food Merchants association as president and at present is a member of the Food Advisory board, representing the small retail grocer in New England. He is also a member of the Boston Retail Grocers association. Director of the Greater Lawrence Food Merchants' association, the active Mr. Kelly is also chairman of the men's committee, Boy Scout troop 75.

Educated in the public schools in Lawrence, St. Patrick's parochial school and St. John's preparatory school, Mr. Kelly is a member of the Andover K. of C., St. Augustine's Catholic Men's club, St. Augustine's Holy Name society and the Andover Sportsmen's club. He also belongs to the St. John's prep alumni association. Born in Lawrence, March 3, 1904, he has been a resident of Andover since 1919 and resides with his mother at 25 Essex st. From 1940 to 1946 he served with the Massachusetts State Guard.

the living standards of her people; she is also obliged to attempt at least to meet the demands of her satellites. When Stalin announced the goal of the Five Year Plan for 1951 he also attempted to predict Russian potential for 1960. Russia's task becomes enormously complicated if the additional hundreds of millions in Eastern Europe and China are to be supplied.

Or Is The U. S. a Better Asset.

The Chinese Communists have indicated their objectives in rehabilitation and development. They hope to repair war devastation in five years; they would like to raise current Chinese industrial output of 10% to a figure around 40% in the following 10 to 15 years. Can the Soviet Union simultaneously expand its own productive facilities, furnish raw materials and finished products to its European satellites, and fill the bottomless well of Chinese needs? Who shall get the limited supply of machinery and products from the communist-dominated world?

The purely physical needs of China may force the Communists to modify their attitude towards the United States. Mao's threat to destroy American "imperialism" in China may be brave words for domestic consumption. He may really mean them. But even so, and in spite of rigid control over the Chinese, he could find that Chinese communism remains merely a thin crust over the land. All is by no means lost to us by our foreign policy. We must attempt to win China away from Russia. Communist success in China is a setback but not defeat. In the meantime, we must support the moderate parties in other areas of the Far East to attract the people away from the seductions of communism.

The division of the world into two parts is tragic, but we have taken effective steps to prepare against eventualities. We can feel that in Europe we have helped to create a bulwark against communism. From now on we must work together with those who support democratic ideals and so prepare the non-communist world to be able to resist communism.

The candidate for the police force was being verbally examined.

"If you were by yourself in a police car and were being pursued by a desperate gang of criminals in another car going 60 miles an hour on a lonely road, what would you do?" asked the police chief.

"Seventy," the candidate replied emphatically.

CLAIMS DAMAGES TO AUTO

Claim for a damaged spring and tire filed by Kenneth McKinry came before the board of selectmen at Monday night's meeting. The damage occurred on Salem street near the North Andover line.

It was decided to have an investigation made by the selectmen in conjunction with the board of public works before action was taken.

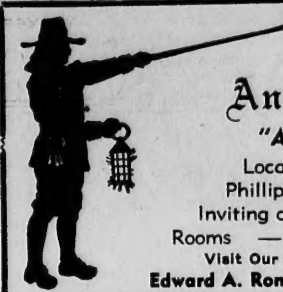

Other business transacted by the selectmen was approval of the treasurer's weekly warrant for pay roll and bills.

It was voted to have the building inspector file his reports with the board weekly instead of monthly, as is the present custom.

Lowell To Have Two Dollar Days

Buyers for the retail business establishments of Lowell where mid-summer "Dollar Days" are to be offered Friday and Saturday, Aug. 12 and 13, announce that by taking advantage of recent conditions they have found it possible to uphold the traditional values offered on these days.

It is said that the values which will be offered to Lowell shoppers during this cooperative event which is sponsored by the Lowell chamber of commerce, will compare most favorably with those of other "Dollar Days." Official stores are distinctly set apart with posters displayed in windows and throughout the stores.

For 200 years during the Middle Ages, most of the fighting was done by knights, and townspeople did not participate.

Many Attractions For Topsfield Fair

The Topsfield Fair, whose claim to the distinction of being the oldest county fair in New England, probably in the United States, never has been seriously challenged, will present its most glittering program in celebration of its 125th anniversary, Sept. 4 through 10, Sunday through Saturday.

More than 10,000 exhibits and prize money totaling $7,500, both records, will combine to produce the biggest agricultural show ever staged here. The stage and race track programs, featuring the inimitable Sally Rand of fan and bubble dance fame, with her "Glamour Girls' Revue" and thoroughbred horse racing with pari-mutuels every afternoon, are expected to help set an all-time attendance mark of 100,000 for the week.

The sponsoring Essex Agricultural society has combed the entertainment field for new attractions and has arranged a sportsman's show believed unique in the history of N.E. county fairs.

examined Wednesday and found to be in good condition, but an older pump, kept for reserve, delivers a greater capacity and this will be tested out today. Unless it can increase the pressure and volume in the high service it will be necessary to cut down on lawn sprinkling. This is the question which the board will decide at a special meeting tonight.

For the first time at the pumping station there were three consecutive days this week during which more than three million gallons of water were pumped daily. One pump is operating 24 hours a day and another has been averaging 20 hours daily. The demand during the past few days has been the heaviest ever in the records of the station.

While the pump at the Bancroft road station, which had been going steadily since last Friday, was stopped Wednesday for examination, Engine 3 tied in between the two service systems from the low into the high system for several hours.

The board at the 1948 town meeting got an appropriation of $6,500 for a new pump at this station but the bids received were all over the amount. New bids will be called for.

A delegation of residents of Highland avenue appeared before the board last night for advice about installing a new water line in their street, a private way. They are now serviced by a 1½ inch pipe, installed many years ago, which is inadequate for present needs. They will install the pipe at their own expense.

Bids to paint the bleachers were opened and the contract awarded to Brouillard Bros., of West Andover, the lowest, with the provision that the work be done by hand. The bid was $369. Other bids were: Howard Eldridge, $850 for spraying; Mr. Stephanle, $678 for hand paint, and $478 for spraying.

The board awarded the contract for gate boxes to G. A. Caldwell of East Boston at a bid of $12.35 each.

Bids for the hiring of a trench digger were received as follows: Lewis & Scott, $87.50 per day or 32½ cents per foot; Cyf Construction Co., Lawrence, $90 a day or 45 cents per foot. The contract politan Boston area with a few thinly scattered cases in the rest of the state.

Dr. Feemster said there is "much superstition about the way polio is spread and exaggerated fear of the disease often causes unnecessary suffering and may disorganize the life of the community. Since most people have the disease entirely without paralysis, this fear for the majority is entirely unfounded."

If polio becomes prevalent in your community, Dr. Feemster advised that these precautions be taken:

Avoid crowds and new contacts. Avoid over-fatigue.

Do not swim in water declared unsafe (the closing of beaches during an epidemic of polio is unwarranted unless the beach is polluted).

The greatest danger at an inspected beach comes from contact with other persons, not from swimming in the water.

Avoid chilling. Practice cleanliness — personal and household.

Consult the family doctor when you have a fever, headache, nausea, a cold, upset stomach, muscle soreness or stiffness.
